INNOVATIVE OPTION

Solli Concepts introduces a range of premium wooden basins under their 'A Drop of Wood' collection. Teak is primarily used because of its natural waterproofing properties – it has been used for hundreds of years in the marine industry for this reason. The line is curated using traditional joinery techniques, thus eliminating the use of any nails or screws. This method of construction ensures that the joints are extremely strong and it allows for some natural movement through seasonal changes and temperatures without compromising the product usage and functionality.

COMPACT YET FUNCTIONAL

Studio Creo offers an impressive mix of selectively curated brands from Italy, in India. Creo recently launched some new products this month. The Boffi Outdoor Kitchen is a mini kitchen in the form of a large trolley with kitchen functions: hob (induction), mini-refrigerator, drawers, storage compartments, small cutlery drawer, sockets for small electrical appliances, big chopping board and tray. It can be used outdoors, preferably in covered environments. It can be equipped with a waterproof cover in special fabric.
