THE WOOD you need

Use of flamed wood could be a perfect option for someone wanting to try out something entirely different. This kind of wood basically holds all properties of traditional wood but has a matt black finish and many additional benefits. Sohel Contractor of Solli Concepts has been working with wood for over a decade shares a few tips. He says, "It's a counter intuitive but ingenious idea: heating wood to render it fireproof. The process renders the wood resistant to rot, repels termites and other pests, and makes it waterproof, longer lasting, dense and durable. A single piece of furniture like a chair or even a table top can leave guests in astonishment during the festive season." Wood in general is also known to reduce stress and have a calming effect and help add to the warmth of the décor. ➤
